Workshop on Emotions, Imagination, and Time

21–23 settembre 2017, Palazzo Feltrinelli, Gargnano del Garda, Italy

The Department of Philosophy at the University of Milan (Centre for the Philosophy of Time) and the universities of Modena, Lancaster and York are pleased to announce the workshop Emotions, Imagination, and Time, to be held from the 21st–23rd September, at the Palazzo Feltrinelli, Gargnano, Lake Garda, Italy.

Confirmed Speakers:

Carla Bagnoli (Modena and Reggio Emilia, Oslo)

Davide Bordini and Giuliano Torrengo (Milan)

Clotilde Calabi and Nick Young (Milan)

Laura Candiotta (Edinburgh)

Dorothea Debus (York)

Julien Deonna (Geneva)

Christoph Hoerl (Warwick) and Theresa McCormack (Queen's University Belfast)

Rob Hopkins (NYU)

Clare Mac-Cumhaill (Durham)

Kevin Mulligan (Geneva)

Sabine Roeser (TU Delft)

Cain Todd (Lancaster)

Imagination and the emotions have been subjected to intense philosophical scrutiny, but less attention has been paid to the fact that both are inherently temporal mental states. They can be directed at the future or the past: we can anxiously imagine what a future event will be like, or ruefully imagine what we could have said in an awkward situation. They also unfold over time: a bad mood can dissipate as the day goes by, we can imagine our favourite artwork for the length of time it takes the elevator to arrive. This workshop explores the temporal aspects of emotion and imagination, and how they relate to perception, rationality, aesthetics, and moral judgement.

Accommodation

Accommodation is available for attendees at the Palazzo Feltrinelli (250 Euros for three nights, including catering) although places are limited. Transportation between Milan and Gargnano can be arranged for the day before and final day of the conference (see also <http://www.gargnanosulgarda.com/tourist-service-lakegarda/how-to-reach-gargnano.html>).
